Successful submissions are provided the opportunity to deliver an oral presentation during one of the four abstract sessions across the two day conference. These sessions are an important part of DFA 2019, as they show the newest and brightest research works from around Australia and internationally.

All abstracts will be reviewed by our scientific committee. We will be looking for abstracts that display high-quality original research with relevance for clinical practice, now and into the future. All abstracts selected for presentation compete for the "DFA Conference 2019 Best Abstract Award".
